FREE SIGN LANGUAGE CLASSES TO BE GIVEN AT THE D.C. PUBLIC LIBRARY

The D.C. Public Libraries are planning to present sign language sessions on each Tuesday evening, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., starting on February 7, and ending on September 12, at our four regional branch libraries. The Martin Luther King Memorial Library will have classes every Friday noon, from 11:30 to 1:00, starting February 24 and these may be held on a continuing basis.

If you are interested in spreading within the community an awareness of your services and programs for the deaf, including sign language classes; in keeping up your sign language skills; or in seeking the truth of the joy of being a deaf person, you may find that we serve these interests well and without any cost. To co-sponsor our free sign language classes, please contact Alice Hagemeyer, Librarian for the Deaf, Room 410, D.C. Public Library, 901 G St., N.W., Washington, D.C., 20001.
